"I just wanted to say thank you for giving me the opportunity to pilot the Titanic Drama Literacy. My class dread writing each week and this really gave the writing a purpose. They loved creating the drama scenes. I also enjoyed the fact that the writing elements were short pieces as it allowed my class to think carefully about what to include in their writing. I do have a rather able class with a few who do need a lot of support with writing but the writing these children did produce was fantastic and they could do it unassisted. We also did a Titanic topic alongside this and the children were able to use what they had learned to inform the drama scenes they were creating. The four lessons was a perfect amount too.

Overall I was delighted with how much of a success this pilot was and I would definitely do another Drama Literacy with my class."

Spelling Games – NEW TO MODULE 2

These are fun, classroom games that support teaching spelling. Spelling words can be chosen from your spelling lists or from the children themselves and you can easily ensure that these match the abilities of your students where appropriate and also challenge able spellers.

Arm Spelling is suitable for all ages while Spelling Popcorn and Bump Away are more suitable for P3 upwards.
