The Teaching Video Lessons – Key to Success

Consistently exposing your students to the formal, reinforcing their interactive skills and making sure the Literacy elements are always EMBEDDED and not simply add-ons is key, even when a writing task is at the end of the Drama Lesson.

By allowing them to re-engage with the interactive learning elements, reading aloud written work with a partner/s the class, you are effectively extending the Literacy back into presentation which is a DRAMA SKILL and another performance opportunity.

The students then see Literacy tasks not simply as an Add-On but an integral part of the lessons and it is this aspect that propels the Literacy motivation and success.

IN SUMMARY THE FORMAT IS DRAMA + EMBED LITERACY+ SHARE/PRESENT DRAMA

It is strongly advised that you watch the videos yourself and read over the documentation before presenting them to your class so that you are fully prepared for the lesson organisation.

Be sure to build in time for the Literacy aspects of the lessons.

Please email us for any help or if you have questions and if you have any suggestions for content/topics for future videos please let us know, detailing the stage that you teach.

Good luck!

Winter/Christmas Themes

Below you'll find fun class activities to try out.

The Magical Snowman has directions to develop into a small play to present to an audience. Be that to another class or to parents, it's always a great experience for students to get this opportunity to perform.

Specific Presentation Skills Lessons can be found in Module 2 which are helpful for performing to an audience.

Training Videos for Early Years

Many teachers using the resource have been inspired to deliver lessons for themselves and this has always been one of our aims.

Teaching Drama in the moment is an incredibly powerful learning experience and we want to support teachers who are keen to have a go. The following lessons are easy to deliver but as with all Drama lessons you have to take the lessons off on your own tangent following the students own ideas. Take the plunge and delight your students!
